

STEFANOS ANASTASOPOULOS ORTHOPAEDIC SURGEON

Deputy Director Orthopaedic Clinic NIMTS
Orthopaedic Director EUROCLINIC ATHENS

I was born in Thessaloniki on January 13, 1971. Entered in the military medical school of Aristotle University of Thessaloniki in 1988 and graduated in June 1994 with the grade "very good". In September of the same year I swore as Lieutenant Doctor of the Hellenic Army. Then I was placed at 401 GENERAL MILITARY HOSPITAL for a year, where I attended and participated in the activities of all clinics and Emergency Department of the hospital.

In 1995 I was transferred in artillery unit in Veria, Imathia, where I served as a unit physician for two years. In 1997, after examinations, I held by the military health department, I was chosen to specialise on Orthopaedics.

I gained the title of Orthopaedic specialty in 2004 after 2 years of education at 401 GENERAL MILITARY HOSPITAL of ATHENS, 3 years in the hospital of the Greek Red Cross and one year at children's Hospital "Agia Sofia".

Then I worked as curator of the 2nd orthopaedic clinic of the 401 GENERAL MILITARY HOSPITAL of ATHENS until September 2004, as Director of the orthopaedic clinic of the Military Hospital of Alexandroupolis until August 2007 and as curator of the First orthopaedic clinic of the 401 GENERAL MILITARY HOSPITAL of ATHENS until today. From January 2005 until August 2007 served as Director of the Orthopaedic clinic of the Medical Centre of Thrace. I have participated in numerous conferences, seminars and training practices in Greece, in Europe and in the USA.

I participated in the writing of scientific works, which were announced at conferences or published in medical journals, as well as in writing many chapters of scientific textbooks. I have performed numerous surgical procedures, particularly in the areas of Traumatology, of Arthroscopy and joints surgery. I am a member of the Hellenic Society of Arthroscopy, knee surgery and sports injuries.
